Project Title: Egyptian Language Website

Notes:

- love the background color of mockup A, would definitely stick with that one
- I think the simple nav bar works, maybe if possible to have it so that when the cursor is hovering over it turns the color that coordinates to the specific topic? And then once clicked it highlights which section you are in by color (no worries if that is too complicated)
- Diagram at the top is super helpful!
- Love the initial framing of the timeline, have a feeling that the relative thick/thins of the typeface may be criticized as too hard to read, so maybe switch to a sans serif font? Feel free to use any one you like, I found that the FreightSansPro font worked well because it was made to pair with the other Freight fonts
- I also think that on the home page it may not be necessary to do big background colors for each text block, though they also may want you to do that for contrast sake — honestly whatever is easier for you works for me
